CHARGED WITH ROBBING HIM

Young Man, Said to Be From Richmond, Claims to Be Innocent.

NORFOLK, Va., June 17.—J. W. Meads, a nicely dressed white man, was in the Police Court this morning on the charge of robbery from the person of Joseph Rider.

Rider was touched for his gold watch and considerable money. He could not identify Meads. Others testified, however, to seeing Meads with Rider, and that Meads took money from his pocket to pay for an order in "Smelling" restaurant.

Meads claims it is a case of mistaken identity; that he never before saw Rider, and knows nothing about him. Meads claims to be from Richmond. He claims to be able to prove that at the time the alleged offense occurred he was at the Atlantic Hotel with friends, and retired there. The case was continued to Friday, in order to allow Meads to establish his alibi.

Under-Value Opportunities

In every department forms the text of to-day's offerings, which are unquestionably the most extraordinary we have ever introduced at this period of the season. Special values throughout the stock intensify the attractiveness of usual trading advantages to demonstrate and impress the public with the greater possibilities offered, but of particular interest are the inducements in the immense clothing departments. An enormous woolen deal involving thousands of yards of finest foreign and American fabrics has recently been concluded by the Burk woolen buyers. The price concessions of actual market values were tremendous. Our busy tailoring shops have been taxed to their utmost capacity for the past three weeks to convert these woolens into fashionable clothes for men. The very latest fashion edicts were followed in their designing, with the result that not alone clothes which cover the newest style features are now on the tables, but are obtainable at rich savings because of the under-value basis at which they came to us. The first shipments go on sale to-day, and we can say with every confidence of unsubstantiated contradiction that such clothes nor such clothing values were never offered before—inducements well worthy the investigation of every practical money saver.

AWARD HONORS AT M'GUIRE'S SCHOOL

Jack Gordon Memorial Scholarship Won by H. R. Miller, Jr.—Valedictory Address by S. P. Cowardin.

The closing exercises of the forty-third session of McGuire's University School were held in the school building yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. As a tribute to thorough work and a worthy ambition, and in accordance with long established custom, the University and College Record of the school for the current session is made a conspicuous part of the closing exercises.

Honors at University.

The particularly fine record made this year at the various colleges attended by the school, at the University of Virginia, where the school had this year fourteen representatives, the McGuire boys took three of the twelve M. A. degrees conferred, three B. A. degrees and one B. L. degree, a total of seven degrees and forty-four academic and professional diplomas.

McGuire boys receiving degrees at the University of Virginia were M. P. Robinson, M. A.; R. F. Mason, M. A.; J. T. Wingo, B. A.; and M. A.; W. W. Crump, B. A.; M. G. Wallace, B. A.; W. B. Lamb, B. L. There were several other young men, highly distinguished at the university, this year formerly pupils in the school, whose success at college and whose former association with the school are sources of pride and pleasure to the boys and to the teachers, but they did not go directly from this school to college, but received degrees and diplomas as properly credited to the school last attended.

At Davidson College the two representatives of the school—Revitt and Miller—were successful in all examinations.

At Johns Hopkins, Douglas Freeman, the single McGuire boy at that university, received his B. L. degree this year after a brilliant career at that institution.

At Stevens had ten men out of a class of 125 were successful at every examination, and both of the McGuire boys there—A. C. Bruce and J. C. Robertson—were among the ten who were successful.

At the United States Naval Academy W. C. Wickham and R. S. Robertson were successful in all examinations.

At Hampden-Sidney there was one degree, R. W. Carrington, B. A.

At the University College of Medicine there were three degrees, W. D. M. J. D., R. C. Eggleston, M. D., and A. P. Upshur, M. D.

This closed the university and college record so far as heard from, and then, after a few words of congratulation, the principal distributed the certificates and diplomas as follows:
